

Workshop on “Turnitin” Program

As part of professional development for faculty and administrative staff, Al Falah University organized a training workshop in collaboration with TechKnowledge FZ on how to use "Turnitin", a program which contributes to speed up in labeling and simplifying audits, and providing feedback beneficial to students.

The speaker presented a detailed explanation on how to use the program, methods of checking students' work and verifying content authenticity.

Other services provided by the program for users include the following:

To help improve the educational level of the students

To provide academic professionals assistance in checking, grading and reviewing students' work.

To encourage students to learn from each other and develop critical thinking skills

Al Falah University's management enables academic faculty members and administrative staff to enhance their level of performance for maximum efficiency.
